THE LAW OFFICE OF R. EDDIE DAVIDSON

Eddie Davidson's law practice is defined by the belief that we all must take responsibility for our actions. Having litigated or consulted in cases in over 25 states, Davidson represents burn victims of gas and fuels explosions and those catastrophically injured in tractor-trailer collisions. He has also litigated sophisticated cyber tort matters. His knowledge and experience enable him to tackle complex issues inherent in these highly technical areas.

Recognized nationally for his expertise in juror decision-making, Davidson is often brought in for consultation by fellow lawyers across the country. He is rated among the Preeminent Lawyers in America by Martindale-Hubbell, and has been selected for inclusion in The Best Lawyers in America®, Super Lawyers of the Mid South, The Top 100 Trial Lawyers in Tennessee and The Nashville Business Journal's Best of the Bar in litigation.

Boston attorney and former client, Alan Robbins notes, "If there is one thing I learned in the forty-five years that I have been an active defense litigator in Massachusetts, it is how to recognize a capable and skillful colleague. The Tennessee bar is fortunate to have you."

Daniel Rodriguez, from Bakersfield, California says, "Your insight and assistance helped us put on a presentation that not only addressed the problem issues, but more importantly, diffused and disarmed those issues. You helped turn a dreadful case into a winning case. I could have never done it with out your help."

A faculty member of the Nashville School of Law, Davidson prepares law students for their chosen profession. Among the first lawyers in Nashville to run a paperless office, Davidson teaches his students and fellow lawyers the benefits of a digital practice in an increasingly computerized culture.

Borrowing from Einstein, who said, "We are most productive when we focus on a very small number of projects to which we can devote a large amount of attention," Davidson adopts a less-is-more philosophy and maintains a low-volume caseload in order to optimize available time and resources. Eschewing television ads, billboards, and the back pages of phone books, Davidson seeks to positively impact the public's perception of lawyers dedicated to assisting the seriously injured.
